Focus of Observation :
Looking at other host teacher's methods of teaching

Reflection :

The two host teachers have very different approaches in the classroom. This host teacher does use technology and in this lesson was exploring the artist Paul Cezanne with the students. They did not present a PowerPoint but instead googled his name and showed the students images of his work as well as a website with information on the artist.

Students were engaged and this group was very small so they engaged with each other and discussed as a full class which was nice to see.

There were no real behavior issues within this class, the students seemed to respect the teacher and were very engaged with the learning going on.
